

The transponder is constantly sending a signal, in a cone shape, with the closed end of the cone at the center of the transponder. As the transponder reaches the outside edge of the "V" in the loop, the car is "seen" by the system.

Drawings courtesy of Matt Stasiak

The transponder is constantly sending a signal, in a cone shape, with the closed end of the cone at the center of the transponder. As the transponder reaches the outside edge of the "V" in the loop, the car is "seen" by the system.

Drawings courtesy of Matt Stasiak